The Reserve Bank of India in its Credit Policy hiked the Repo rate (Rate at which RBI lends money) by 25 bps to 6.25% and the Reverse Repo rate (Rate at which RBI absorbs surplus) by 25 bps to 5.25%. This was primarily done to manage rising inflationary expectations, without disrupting the growth rate. The Central Bank indicated that the likelihood for further monetary action, given the moderation in inflation, was relatively low. The CRR was kept unchanged at 6%.

Fixed Income Market

The IIP (Industrial Production) for the month of August came at 5.6%, lower than market expectation. The July figures were revised to 15.2% from 13.8%. Capital goods after growing at 9.2% in the previous month fell by 2.6%. This had an impact on the overall data.

Acknowledging that liquidity has tightened, RBI separately announced a OMO (buyback) of INR 12,000 crores. The decision to buyback 7.80% GoI 2020 brought clarity and cheer to the bond market in terms of long term benchmark status for bonds. After announcement of the buyback, sovereign bonds rallied.

Equity Market

The Equity Market took a breather in October with both Nifty and Sensex closing almost flat over last month. Over the last 3 months, both these indices have delivered 12%, the highest increase amongst developing markets.

FII inflows continued unabated with a net inflow of USD 5.4 bn after having witnessed USD 6 bn of net buying in September. The total FII equity investment in 2010 till date stands at USD 24.6 bn.

October was an eventful month from the Economy

Primary Market perspective, which saw the successful launch and closure of Coal India IPO. It raised USD 3.5 bn and was the largest IPO in the Indian market history. The issue was subscribed 15x overall and 25x in Qualified Institutional Buyer (QIB) segment, thereby indicating strong underlying growth as well as demand for Indian Equities.

The second quarter result for FY11 has broadly been satisfactory in all major sectors and in-line with market expectations. The Equity Market, although range bound in October, seemed to have factored in these positives.

Most banks have reported strong credit and core income growth as well as expansion in Net Interest margins. This has led to improved profitability. For Automobile companies, the month of October was equally strong with some of the companies reporting their highest ever monthly sales amidst the festive season.

Companies in the Construction & Engineering sector have posted good results, which were above consensus estimates. The improvement in capital expansion cycle has helped these companies report double digit revenue growth (year-on-year) with improvement in profitability. The new order inflow has been quite robust, thereby providing improved revenue visibility for these companies.

Fixed Income Market Outlook

The domestic economy is on a strong footing and should help absorb, to a large extent, the negative impact of a slowdown in the global recovery. Inflation outlook will be shaped by how food price inflation moves, rising commodity prices and demand pressures arising from sustained growth. Inflation is expected to moderate from the present high levels.

We believe RBI will take a pause on further rate hikes. In our view, G-Sec yields are close to the peak and foresee limited downside risks. We would be looking to increase maturities, as concerns on inflation abate and liquidity scenario improves.

Equity Market Outlook

Although all second quarter results are yet to be announced, investors have derived comfort from the ones declared so far. Globally, markets are anticipating a second round of Quantitative easing (easy monetary conditions) to stimulate growth. This is positive for emerging markets as it is likely to aid export growth.

We believe Indian markets would continue to stand out in terms of risk reward for global investors. We think that the market, in the next couple of quarters, would start to factor in FY 2013 earnings of companies. This would provide a reference point to a large set of investors who are not comfortable with current valuations.

The drop in Core Industrial Production growth was a point of concern. We cautiously await the overall Industrial Production numbers for September.

We continue to remain positive on domestic consumption themes of Financial services, Automobile and Infrastructure. However, the market may witness a correction in case of negative sentiment emanating from developed markets. We expect momentum in corporate earnings to continue in the coming year. We maintain our positive fundamental view on equity markets, going forward.
